

Since the Do Not Call List was instituted I have not had to deal with constant calls from telemarketers and other solicitations. This process has worked extremely well and I do not feel it should be altered or limited by anyone in any way. If anything, the FCC should work to make the ruling stronger.